We found two more affordable friendship bracelets that might be just right for your tight-knit group this holiday season. The best part? Both give back:

She's the First I.D. bracelet, \$20: This organization helps send underprivileged girls to school—many of which will be the first in their families to graduate. Twenty percent of these eco-friendly leather bracelets created by Asha Patel Designs support She's the First and the Shanti Bhavan and Kenya Education Fund programs.

Pencils of Promise Braced-Lets, \$12 for 3: While your friends may be happy to have left their braces and overbite behind, these bangles made of power chains and brackets will make them happy to wear them again—but this time on their wrists. Two dollars from each pack helps build the El Cacao High School in Nicaragua.

What are you giving to your friends this holiday season?
